About Mauck's Withdrawal. J. F. Mauck, late Democratic candidate for how he got off the truck. On election day, Mr. Manck personally requested us to publish a statement, which we had in type; but upon seeing his card in the Republican, so different from what he stated to us, and unmistakably instigated, if not written, by some other person, we left the matter

There is said to be no danger of a money of his own party were not apporting him. To confirm this, a sparious tickt was brought to light, which was being secretly eirculated-being the Democratic ticket, with the name of Bowers inserted for Representative. But to make sure, one of his Democratic friends went ble portion of the District, a day or two before the election; and satisfying himself that Mauck had no earthly show, he was anxious to have him withdraw, and perhaps orged it eagerly. Manck did consent to withdraw, on the morning of the election; but in the meantime, some of the Bowers party had got wind of the sure of an election, and urging him to stick-at the same time knowing they were deceiving him, and intending to use him to accomplish their ends. Mauck then became sullen, refusing to lift a hand to accomplish what he had declared to be the first wish of his heart. Wно Did IT!—As there seems to be a differen of opinion as to which party is responsible for the defeat of Mr. Low for the Legislature, we have taken the pains to examine the original ballots on file in the Clerk's office. In the first place, the party that opposed the Price ticket, were under obligation to support Low, as he opposed them, and they had no part in his nomination; yet a large proportion of them voted for him The Price party nominated him, and were in honor bound to support him with their votes. In making the examination, we counted only straight Price Republican tickets, making no account of Liberal and mixed tickets containing Price's name, Low is beaten 14 votes. We find, in the Donipha poll alone, enough Price Republican tickets with Low's name scratched and O'Driscoll's inserted, to have made the vote even in the District, if they which give a good idea of what the work will be. had not been so scratched. Therefore, one Price It will be sold only by subscription, and is bound of the other two precincts in Wayne, would be enough to defeat him. The tickets of Centre law requires; but it is well known that not only one, but many Price tickets in this Township, had Low's name scratched, and O'Driscel's inserted. He was traded off, to secure votes for Price. This fully establishes the truth of what we have heretofore asserted, and exposes the falsity of a contrary statement telegraphed to the public press.

Terrible Confingration in Boston! On Saturday, a fire broke out in Boston, and continued to rage through Sanday, spreading with frightful rapidity, and buffling all attempts to stay its progress, until it had destroyed seventy acres of buildings, including all the heavy business portion of the city. It falls but little behind the Chicago disaster, in distructiveness. The loss is estimated at about $150,000,000.

It cannot but be, with Dr. Holland's thoughtful view of life, that we shall have developed in the course of the story some of the perplexing problems of our modern life. But in the introductory chapter these are scarcely hinted at. The story is autobiographical. PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED.—The New York World frankly says that the difference of views between Mr. Greeley and the mass of his late supporters is so great that it is impossible for the coalition to form a permanent political organization. Hence the partnership is dissolved. All sensible people have seen that this must be the result. Now let the Democracy disband, and the way will be clear for a new party that may amount to a legitimate Opposition.

We learn from the Cawker City Scatinel that Mr. Henry Bolander, a citizen of Cedar Creek, Smith Connty, six miles above Germantown, was robbed on Sunday night, Oct. 13, of $217 in money, $175 worth of clothing, a gun and some other things. The robbery was committed by two men who professed to be hunting claims. The Cawker City Sestinel says that on Monday last, about 2 o'clock, one of the most terrific hail storms ever witnessed in Northwestern Kansas passed just west of that city. The heaviest fall passed two and a half miles west of there, extending about seven miles in width. The hailstones were said by those who were in the range of the storm to be—many of them—as large as goose eggs. Mr. Minnich carried to Cawker City a pailful of them that he scraped off the ground, and at half-past 6 o'clock, over four hours from the time they fell, many of the pieces of ice measured six and a quarter inches in circumference. Little damage was done, however, by the storm.

[Special Dispatch from New York, Nov. 3.]

The Times will publish to-morrow some interesting and spicy revelations regarding the financial history of the Greeley coalition and the sources from which the sinews of war were obtained. The facts given are evidently obtained from some one thoroughly posted as to the inside history of the Liberal Republican movement. The first name on the subscription list is that of Gen. Pleasanton, who subscripti sprague put down $20,000 in the name of two friends, John F. Hamlin and E. Pierce, $10,000 of the money to be devoted to the New England States and the balance to Pennsylvania. Amasa Sprague furnished $15,000, with instructions to apply it as follows: Maine, $5,000; Connecticut, $5,000. Ethan Allen gave $10,000; Banks, of the national Democratic committee, $15,000; the Tribane gave $12,000, Whitelaw Reid's purchase of a share, it is stated, furnishing the cash. Angustus Schell turned over $50,000, to be expended by the Liberal Republican committee. Among other contributors are Marshall O. Roberts $10,000, and John Cochrane, who credited himself on his own books with $600. Few people imagined that John had been long enough an alderman to have accumulated such an enormous saum. It appears that Bob Murray, ex-United States marshal, and the notorious Wood and Blumenburg contributed for the campaign in Pennsylvania, and that there is a fearful fend among them as to the disposition of some $1,000.

HOW THEY PAILED.

The Campaign of Craziness

The Nation of last week contains a cheerful bit of advances consolation for the Greeleyites, running as follows:

The World has practically given up the presidential contest in a philosophical article intended to show that it makes little difference who is elected, which is a concession of some value, as it was the firm belief of the Democrata, and of many of the Liberal Republicans, six or eight months ago that the continuance of Grant four years longer in office would prove the ruin of free government in America. They were measurably successful in making converts to this belief, extravagant as it was, until they produced their remedy. When they said that Greeley was the only hope of the country, people began to lose confidence in what they said about Grant, and have been losing it steadily ever since. Indeed, the experiences the country has had with them is not unlike that which people sometimes have with lunatics. A crazy man will often tell strangers a very plansible and coherent story about the persecutions of which he is the object, and the losses and vexations to which his enimies subject him, and obtain general credence; but when he comes down to defails, and tells you that his own mother and the pastor of his church often pass the night under his bed, on all fours, pushing up the mattress with their backs, his tale assumes quite a different aspect. So the public was really getting alarmed by the accounts some of us gave of the President's ignorance and naurpations and of the abuses of the civil service, until we introduced Greeley as the great administrative reformer. Then there came a terrible laugh, and people began to see a queer, wild look in the Liberal eye, and wonder they had not remarked it before.

"Liberals" in It							-		-										-

WHEREAS, The revolution of another year has again brought the time when it is usual to look back upon the past and publicly to thank the Almighty for His mercies and his blessings; and WHEREAS, If any one people has more occasion than another for such thankfulness, it is the citizens of the United States, whose Government is their creature, subject to their behests, who have reserved to themselves ample civil and religious freedom and equality before the law, who during the hast twelve months have eujoyed exemption from any grievous or general calamity, and to whom prosperity in agriculture, manufactures and commerce has been vouchsafed:

Now, therefore, for these considerations, I recommend that on Thursday, the 28th day of November, the people meet in their respective places of worship, and there make their acknowledgments to God for His kindness and bounty.

In witness whereof, I have bereamto set my THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The Liberal Leaders. We have been taking a survey of the Liberal field, and noting what there is encouraging in it

William 8. Grosvenor, the founder and leader of the party, beaten for Cengress.

B. Gratz Brown, the chief fugleman, and second fiddler to Grosvenor, a candidate for Vice-President, is submerged beneath 500,000 majority. In this race he lost character, prestige, ahd even the fictitions reputation which at first gave him notoriety. He is the worst used up man in America. He has not the Tribane to return to as Greeley has. By foul and andacions aspersions of other men's public life, he attempted to ascend to political heights far out of his reach. His meannesses have been fully exposed. Whatever of worth there was in him has gained nothing by comparison with his superiors. Henceforth he Nathaniel P. Banks—four thousand of his forner friends signified to him on the fifth instant that they had enough of him, and wanted no more of his public service.

Horace Greeley—everybody will throw a large mantle of charity over him and let it stay there.

John M. Palmer—the last and least—none so low and helpless as to say, "By your leave, sir."

INDIAN WIVES.

Important Case Involving a Large Fortune-is an Indian Trader's Temperary Union with a Squaw a Legal Marriage?

Some months ago Mrs. Troost, of Kansas City Some months ago Mrs. Troost, of Kansas City, died, leaving a great deal of property to be devoted to public uses. Among other bequests there were made in her will provisions for the erection of a grand opera house, a church and seminary, and a park, and for other purposes. The following, from the Kansas City Journal of Commerce, summarizes the legal questions that will have to be settled by the supreme court, which will determine the rights of heirs who may be the issue of virtual marriages not recognized by law:

ALL ONE PARTY.—"We are all Republicans, we are all Democrats," said Gratz Brown, in his jubilation over the Liberal success of 1870.

The great victory of Tuesday, by which Grant was chosen chief magistrate for four years more, has made us more nearly so than any similar event since the election of Jame Monroe.

We do not believe that since that day a man has been elected to the Presidency with whom the great mass of the people were so well satisfied. Even the most pronounced Democrats are satisfied with the result, and we believe feel safer, so far as the great material interests of the country are concerned, than they would had the choice been other than it is. The only really disappointed people are the handful of liberals, and their soreness is altogether personal to themselves.

The American people are nearer together in political feeling to-day than they have been since 1924. And we rejoice at it.—Kansas City Journal

Among the Republicans of the State, who are not on the ticket, who have done splendlid work for the party during this canvass, and who are entitled to the thanks of the Republicans, are T. D. Thacher, Esq., of Lawrence, Col. St. John, of Olathe, Col. J. D. Snoddy, of LaCygne, H. W. Cook, Esq., of Wyandotte, Col. J. C. Carpenter, of New Chirago, and Hon. D. B. Emmert, of Humboldt. These gentleman are casting bread apon the political waters that will return to them in some of our future State Conventions.—Micani Republican.
